One week workshop on "Data Structures" from 8th – 12th December, 2014

Data Structures is a very important concept in the computer science curriculum. People who are not conversant with this concept are not employable as per the industry perspective. This workshop is an attempt to train the trainers in the area of data structures, so that the students graduating from their respective institutions are well conversant and competent in this area. Each participant will be given a participation certificate. This is the first in a sequence of workshops planned by the Information Technology Department in this area. In the subsequent events, advanced topics in the area of data structures will be dealt with. The workshop is planned to impart both theoretical aspects and practical knowledge to the participants. Each day, the forenoon session deals with theoretical aspects and real time applications of the topics. The entire afternoon session is devoted to give hands on practice to the participants. At the end of the course, there will be a programming test to the participants and the participant who stands first will be given a prize and a merit certificate in addition to the participation certificate
